“As the Silicon Valley Representative,” said US Congressman Michael Honda (CA-15), “I am proud that local community leaders are gathering for this critical discussion on workforce development within our technology sectors. The forum will help connect job seekers in my district to resources and information that can assist them in finding new opportunities. Stakeholders at the event will spur much needed dialogue and develop key action steps on the different strategies and job trainings that will help Silicon Valley maintain its local and global competitiveness.”