

BART Silicon Valley Project, San Jose, CA - This project is a valuable use of taxpayer funds because it will support the regional economy; enhance regional connectivity and mobility; alleviate traffic congestion; accommodate future travel demand; improve access to employment, education, medical, and retail centers; and maximize public transit usage. The people of the County of Santa Clara have repeatedly supported local tax measures to pay for the extension of the BART line into their county. Local and state funding make up a significant majority of the funding for the whole project.
