When the Budget Control Act was passed this summer, the country heaved a sigh of relief that the Republican generated default crisis had been averted. Now, I get approached daily by constituents who want to know how the Budget Control Act will affect their lives and the government services they count on; and what this Super Committee is, how it will work and what I think it should do.

This Thursday at 10AM PDT, I am holding a conference call for constituents to answer all these questions and guide them through what the Budget Control Act does and what the Super Committee will do. You can download a data-rich powerpoint to follow along during the conference call here

The call-in number is: 712-432-0900

Time: Thursday, September 22, 10AM PDT
