

Lunar New Year

Written by Mike Honda

Today I join the nation in celebrating Lunar New Year, a time when we come together to honor our heritage, reunite with family, and give thanks for our many blessings. I am proud to represent one of the most diverse Asian American and Pacific Islander districts in the country, as today emphasizes the importance of people of all backgrounds being able to celebrate their cultures, religions, and identities freely.

Lunar New Year also marks a time to reflect on how we can make our lives better for ourselves and our communities, and to embrace the sense of renewal and reinvigoration that comes along with a new year. I wish everyone a happy new year filled with peace, love, and prosperity.
