

“As a person who was separated from family members in internment camps during my childhood, I never want anyone to be torn apart from their loved ones just on the basis of who they are. I proudly sponsored the Reuniting Families Act because it not only reunites same-sex couples, but also protects the civil rights of LGBTQ individuals and ensures that they are treated equitably through comprehensive immigration reform.”